

Hublet Self-service tablet loan units

Loan a tablet as easy as a book and give digital content to library users

Hublet is the perfect solution for libraries who wish to offer loanable tablets for their visitors and complement their services with digital content and materials. Hublet is the only service combining easy management with top-of-the-line security and privacy features in a complete, cost-efficient solution.

The tablet is released from the docking station by showing a library card and typing in the corresponding PIN code. The library staff are in charge of the content: the tablets may include e-books and magazines, games for children, information on the library and a link to a feedback survey. The user-friendly cloud-based management software makes it easy to update and modify the content according to visitor feedback and requests.

When finished with simply return the tablet to the Hublet dock where all user-specific information is deleted and the tablet is automatically reset for the next user. The tablet works only in networks predefined by the library and the library card authentication makes sure the user can be identified if needed.

Thanks to its user profiles, Hublet works great for organizing workshops, events or theme days for different user groups.

Easy and convenient the Hublet solution is safe for both the visitor and the library.
